ESSAY PROMPT:

NOTE: Contestants who do not write an essay will be disqualified. Any essay that does not demonstrate a sincere effort to discuss the assigned topic will be disqualified. The rankings of essays will be based primarily on how well the topic has been addressed. A focused, concise and specific essay beats a vague and rambling essay. Proper grammar and organization should be used to aid clarity, but should not be considered a major factor in scoring. Cover as many corners of the issue as practical. Avoid including personal editorialized opinions, as more than enough information on the subject has been published.

“Kim Il Sung repeatedly asked for permission from Stalin, and later from Mao, to launch an attack on South Korea...But Stalin resisted the idea. Despite several further requests by Kim, Stalin...concluded in September 1949 that the risks of American intervention were too great. In April 1950, Kim went secretly to visit Stalin in the Kremlin. By this time...Stalin felt the international situation was going his way and finally gave Kim the go-ahead.”

“Mao assured...that there was little to fear from the Americans, because “they would not start a third world war over such a small territory.”

-Jeremy Isaacs and Taylor Downing, “Cold War: An Illustrated History, 1945-1991”

The Korean War was born out of the major powers of the Cold War reacting to numerous developments that dramatically and rapidly altered the global political landscape. The conflict forced nations to quickly define their overall Cold War objectives and how far they were willing to go to achieve them. Describe the key events and considerations that shaped and changed the political strategy and outlook of the major belligerents from 1949 to 1951.
